

Birth, parentage, marriage and death of Charles Ludlam junior

This brief evidences the details of the birth, parentage, marriage and death of Charles Ludlam junior.

Those details are –

Charles was born at Leicester, Leicestershire on 24th April 1807 to Charles and Mary Ludlam.

He was baptised at St Mary de Castro church in Leicester on 27th April 1807.

Charles married Sophia Blockley at St Mary de Castro on 22nd October 1832.

He died on the 18th June 1882 at Cavendish Road, Aylestone, Leicester.

The research for this brief was conducted in early 2023 and mid-2026.

Charles' marriage

It is demonstrated in the brief relating to Albert John Ludlam that –

- Albert was born in Leicester about 1836 to Charles and Sophia Ludlam¹
- Sophia's maiden name was Blockley
- Charles and Sophia also baptised another son Loraine in Leicester on 6th August 1834 and
- they also baptised Isabella at "Saint Mary Leicester" at age two on 26th June 1837.

With the earliest baptism of the three located children occurring in Leicester on 6th August 1834, one may expect that Charles and Sophia married in Leicester in the early 1830s.

A Family Search search located a Charles Ludlam marrying a Sophia Blockley at St Mary de Castro in Leicester on 22nd October 1832, see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:QP4W-ZY8K>.²

¹ In each of the 1841, 1851, 1861 and 1871 England Census records, set out below, Albert is recorded as living in the household of Charles and Sophia Ludlam. In the last three of those census records, Albert is specifically named as their son. Further, when Alfred Charles John Ludlam was born in 1875, his birth certificate notes the residence of his mother "Mary Ludlam formerly Walker" as being "No. 5 Newark St, Leicester", see the brief relating to Alfred Charles John Ludlam. That is strong evidence connecting Charles Ludlam through Albert to Alfred.

The 1841 census was taken on the 6th June,³ and hence the census record implies a date range for Charles' birth of between 7th June 1810 and 6th June 1811. However, the ages in 40 of the 50 entries on the above two pages appear to have been rounded up or down to the nearest "5" or "0", and hence Charles' recorded age is likely to be imprecise.

The 1851 England Census has Charles aged 43, a House painter, and born at Leicester, see

The 1871 England Census has Charles aged 63, a “Carridge Builder”, and born in Leicester, see <https://search.findmypast.com/record?id=GBC%2F1871%2F3285%2F0140&parentid=GBC%2F1871%2F0017490642>:

⁶ See https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/1861_United_Kingdom_census.

The 1871 census was taken on the 2nd April,⁷ and hence the census record implies a date range for Charles' birth of between 3rd April 1807 to 2nd April 1808.

(The fact that this Charles Ludlam was a carriage builder is further strong evidence that he was indeed Alfred's grandfather, since Alfred specifically said in his 1942 letter to his daughter Dorothy Shields that his grandfather was a carriage trimmer and upholsterer in Leicester.⁸ See the brief relating to Albert John Ludlam for a full copy of the letter. Further evidence that the Charles Ludlam of 5 Newarke operated a carriage building business is set out in the Appendix to this brief).

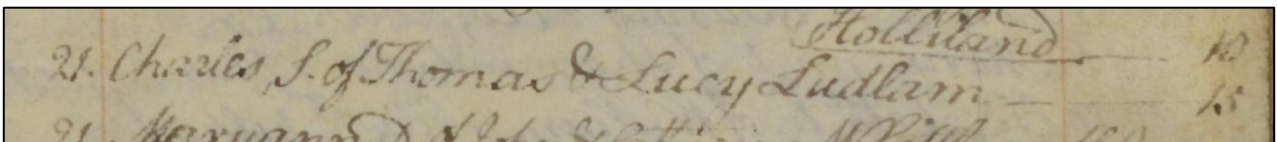

As stated, the ages listed in the above 1841 census record appear to have been rounded up or down to the nearest 5, whereas the ages listed in the above 1851, 1861 and 1871 census records appear to be more precise, and thus more reliable, and they indicate that Charles was born about April 1806 to April 1808.

All four census records indicate Charles' place of birth as Leicestershire, three of the four specifically give the place as Leicester, and one of them specifically nominates "Leicester St Mary". A baptism in that parish seems most likely given the several family events occurring there, and given also that the church of St Mary de Castro is in a lane called Castle View off a street known as "The Newarke", and thus barely 100 metres north of the street on which the family resided for decades, see the above 1851, 1861 and 1871 census records.⁹

A Family Search search for a Charles Ludlam baptism anywhere in Leicestershire between 1805 and 1812¹⁰ only produced records of three: one baptised by Thomas and Lucy Ludlam at St Mary de Castro on 21st April 1806 (and born on 15th April 1806), one baptised to Charles and Mary Ludlam at St Mary de Castro on 27th April 1807 (and born on 24th April 1807), and one baptised to George and Sophia Ludlam at Oadby on 28th May 1809.

(The search also returned an 1881 census record of a Charles Ludlam, widower, at a place called Aylestone, and said to be aged 74, born in Leicester, and a "painter", see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:Q27J-MN3K?lang=en>. Aylestone is 2½ miles south-south-west of Leicester city centre. This census record is discussed further below).

As to the first baptism in 1806, the image of the relevant page of the baptism register of St Mary de Castro is at <https://search.findmypast.com/record?id=S2%2FGBPRS%2FLEICS%2F102027980%2F00039&parentid=GBPRS%2FLEICS%2FBAP%2F00096168>, and this is a close-up of the relevant entry (for 21st April 1806):

However, a Charles, son of Thomas Ludlam, was buried at St Mary de Castro the following 15th March 1807, and at the time of burial he was said to be aged 1, see

Given the small number of records returned for a Charles Ludlam baptism in Leicestershire between 1805 and 1812, and given the St Mary de Castro location, this Charles buried by Thomas Ludlam would be the Charles baptised by Thomas and Lucy Ludlam at St Mary de Castro on 21st April 1806.

As to the third listed baptism to George and Sophia Ludlam at Oadby on 28th May 1809, Oadby is a town on the outskirts of Leicester about 3½ miles south-south-east of its centre, and 3 miles south-east of The Newarke. The 1809 baptism record is at <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:NYTW-YQ8?lang=en>:

However, it can be demonstrated that this Charles was not Charles the father of Albert, as a Charles Ludlam, being a resident of Oadby, married a Susannah Goddard, also a resident of Oadby, in 1830, see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:QP4W-SP75?lang=en>. The marriage was in Oadby, and the couple subsequently appears in the 1841 England Census, not residing in the centre of Leicester at Asylum Street, The Newarke, but at London Road, Oadby, and with 5 children aged ten and under, none of whom are named Albert, see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:MQY2-ZJC?lang=en>.

The couple continued to live their lives in Oadby, as is apparent from the England Census records for 1851 (by which time the couple had two additional children), 1861 (with another two children), 1871 and 1881, see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:SGF2-C97?lang=en> (1851), <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:M755-TL1?lang=en> (1861), <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:VFTD-LTT?lang=en> (1871) and <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:Q27J-MPT1?lang=en> (1881).

In the 1851, 1861 and 1871 records, Charles birthplace was specifically named as Oadby.

As an example of these records, the FindMyPast transcript of the relevant 1871 England Census record is at <https://www.findmypast.com/transcript?id=GBC%2F1871%2F0017303434&tab=this>, and is as follows:

Further, this 1871 England Census record notes that the Oadby Charles was a “framework knitter” (as do the 1861 and 1881 census records), whereas it was the 1871 census that noted that the Newarke Charles was a “carriage builder”, the occupation that Alfred Charles John Ludlam identified as that of his grandfather in his 1942 letter to his daughter Dorothy Shields.

Thus, according to Family Search, the only possible candidate for Albert’s father is the Charles baptised to Charles and Mary Ludlam at St Mary de Castro on 27th April 1807 (and born on 24th April 1807).

FindMyPast was also searched for any record relating to a Charles Ludlam born anywhere in Leicestershire between 1804 and 1814,¹² but no baptism records were returned additional to the three listed above that were found in Family Search.

Nevertheless, given the strong family connection to St Mary de Captro, its baptisms register was manually inspected from 1804 to 1812 inclusive (pages 31¹³ to 62). No other Charles Ludlam was recorded as baptised there in that period apart from the 1806 and 1807 baptisms already noted above. It was also noted that the name Charles was not common, there were about 15 baptised out of the 650 males baptised in the 9 years of baptisms inspected.¹⁴

Accordingly, Charles was born on 24th April 1807 to Charles and Mary Ludlam, and he was baptised at St Mary de Castro on 27th April 1807.

Charles' death

As noted above, Charles was born on 24th April 1807, he was still alive at the time of the 1871 census and living at 5 Newark, St Mary,¹⁵ and he had lived in the vicinity of that address in inner Leicester since at least 1841.

A Family Search search for the death of a Charles Ludlam in Leicestershire between 1871 and 1910¹⁶ returned the following deaths in that county of a Charles Ludlam born about 1807: one in Oadby in 1884 (and said to be 75), see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:QP4Q-V2MZ?lang=en>, one in Blaby in 1884 (also said to be 75), see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:2VMF-JLX?lang=en>, and one in Blaby in 1882 (also said to be 75), see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:2J86-XFM?lang=en>. (Notably, the 1884 and the 1882 deaths are recorded on the same page of the relevant GRO register book, Volume 7A page 24).

Blaby is a town just outside of Leicester and about 5 miles south-south-west of its centre. Blaby is also a General Register Office registration district,¹⁷ so reference to the town in a GRO death record might mean the death was of a resident of nearby areas, and not necessarily a resident of the town itself. At relevant times since 1837, the Blaby registration district has included Aylestone (until 1892), Leicester Forest and Oadby.

The last two are obviously not Charles the father of Albert, having been born about 1849 and 1851 respectively.

Having been born on 24th April 1807, Charles the father of Albert turned 75 in the June quarter of 1882, and 77 in the June quarter of 1884.

Having been born on 28th May 1809, the Oadby Charles turned 73 in the June quarter of 1882, and 75 in the June quarter of 1884.

That makes it quite likely that the Oadby Charles died in 1884, and that the Charles that died in 1882 is the Charles who was the father of Albert.

Further, the above census records verify that the Oadby Charles essentially lived all his life in Oadby, and that Charles the father of Albert lived all his life in inner Leicester. That makes it highly likely that the Oadby Charles was buried in Oadby, and that Charles the father of Albert was not.

A Family Search record of the burial of the Charles who died in the June quarter of 1884 confirms that the burial occurred on 15th May 1884 in Oadby,¹⁸ see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:QP4Q-V2MZ>:

¹⁸ A post at https://www.genesreunited.com.au/boards/board/genealogy_chat/thread/711873?page=10 lists a number of Ludlam graves in Oadby. It says the Parish Churchyard around St. Peter's Church is very small, and that many other Ludlams are buried "in the Civic Cemetery On the Wigston Lane next to the 'Walter Charles Centre'" at Oadby including "LUDLAM Charles 15 May 1884". An image of the grave was not located on FindaGrave or billiongraves.com searches.

Although both Charles Ludlams have their deaths registered on the same volume and page number (7a, 24) of the General Register Office's registers, the indices to those registers (linked to the above FreeBMD searches) clearly record one death in 1882 and a separate death in 1884. This is the index page listing the 1882 death:

[illegible]

A FindMyPast search for the death of a Charles Ludlam in Leicestershire between 1870 and 1910 with the keywords “St Mary”¹⁹ (given Albert’s father was particularly associated with that parish, as referred to above) produced no additional candidates.

There is no relevant Charles Ludlam in the Family Search database “England and Wales, National Index of Wills and Administrations, 1858-1957”.

The fruitlessness of these further searches does, however, tend to further confirm that there is no other Charles Ludlam who could be Albert’s father except the Charles who died in 1882. Unfortunately, there is no further information linking him to Charles and Sophia’s family in the Family Search record of that 1882 death, see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:2J86-XFM>:

Charles appears to be the sole occupant of a “house back from street” in Cavendish Road, Aylestone. That street is 1½ miles south of Newarke Street. Also, as noted above, Aylestone is in the Blaby registration district.

This census record would likely be for Charles the father of Albert. The age correlates, the occupation of house painter correlates, and the fact that he is widowed correlates (Sophia died in 1875, see the brief relating to her). Also, the fact that he was living alone correlates as Charles was having children in the 1830s, see above, so by 1881 any surviving children would be well grown up.

On 7th July 2026, an online extract from the register book entry of the 1882 death was ordered from the General Register Office (UK), and this is the extract provided:

No.	When and Where Died.	Name and Surname.	Sex	Age.	Rank or Profession.	Cause of Death.	Signature, Description and Residence of Informant.	When Registered.	Signature of Registrar.
264	Aylestone. June 1882. Aylestone R. & D.	Charles Ludlam.	Male	15 Years.	Painter.	Natural cause. Apoplexy.	Aylestone. Certificate received from Geo. Harrison, a brother for the County of Leicestershire. Inquest held at Leamington June 1882.	Twenty second June 1882.	R. Ludlam Registrar.

Again, the age at death and the occupation of painter correlates with Albert's father.

That occupation of painter, and the Aylestone location, as well as the age at death in 1882 being one year older than the age given in the 1881 census, lines up with the above 1881 census record, and confirms that the Charles in the 1882 death record is the same Charles as in the 1881 census record. The further information in that census record referred to above as confirming that the person in the record is Albert's father (that is, the fact of being a widower and living alone), thus further confirms that the death record is also for Albert's father.

The extract from the register book entry of the 1882 death refers to an inquest, and a report of the same was located in the Leicester Chronicle of 24th June 1882, page 2, see <https://www.findmypast.com/image-viewer?issue=BL%2F0000173%2F18820624&page=10&article=073>.²⁰

SUDDEN DEATH AT AYLESTONE.—On Tuesday an inquest was held at the Avenue Hotel, Cavendish-road, Aylestone Park, before Mr. Coroner Harrison, touching the death of Charles Ludlam, aged 75. It appeared that the deceased, who was a retired painter, resided alone at Avenue Buildings, Cavendish-road, a Mrs. Adnitt attending to him. Some time ago he was taken ill, but Dr. Snoad prescribed for him, and he recovered, being apparently in good health till Wednesday last. That evening Mrs. Adnitt had to obtain the assistance of a neighbour to get the deceased to bed, but nothing serious was apprehended, and on Friday afternoon he appeared to be getting better. On Sunday morning, however, Mr. Ludlam was found dead on the floor of his bedroom. Dr. Snoad was called, and gave it as his opinion that death was caused by natural causes, probably apoplexy.—The jury found a verdict accordingly.

• CHARLES-STREET CHAPEL. — On Tuesday last the

Notably, and probably more accurately than the extract from the register book entry, the report states that Charles was a “retired” painter.

Accordingly, Charles Ludlam died on the 18th June 1882 at Cavendish Road, Aylestone, Leicester.

APPENDIX

FURTHER EVIDENCE CONNECTING CHARLES LUDLAM TO ALFRED LUDLAM

As noted above, Alfred informed his daughter Dorothy in his 1942 letter to her that his grandfather Charles carried on business as a carriage trimmer and upholsterer in Leicester.

Further evidence, as follows, verifies that the Charles Ludlam documented in the 1841, 1851, 1861 and 1871 census records above, being Charles Ludlam of Asylum Street and then 5 Newarke, Leicester,²¹ was the grandfather of Alfred Charles John Ludlam to whom he refers in his 1942 letter to his daughter Dorothy.

That is because the above-referred to Charles Ludlam did indeed operate a carriage building business, as the following evidence proves.

The evidence from census records

The 1841 census lists Charles occupation as a Journeyman Painter, see the image of the census record above.²²

The 1851 census lists his occupation as “House Painter”, see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:SG1D-Z84>.

The 1861 census lists Charles’ occupation as “Coach Painter”, see

<https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:M7YQ-7V4>. His son Albert in his household is now 24, and of working age, and his occupation is also given as a “Coach Painter”, see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:M7YQ-7VC>.

Coach painting is not strictly speaking coach trimming and upholstering,²³ however, it is a finishing trade in coach manufacture.

However, by the 1871 census, Charles’ occupation is listed as a “Carridge Builder” [sic], see <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:VFTK-VJ7>.

The evidence from Leicester directories

Kath Palyga’s papers included a copy of pages 254-255 from White’s History, Gazetteer & Directory of Leicestershire & Rutland, 1863, provided to her by her cousin Ken Scarra, and which contains the following listing in the Leicester Directory section.

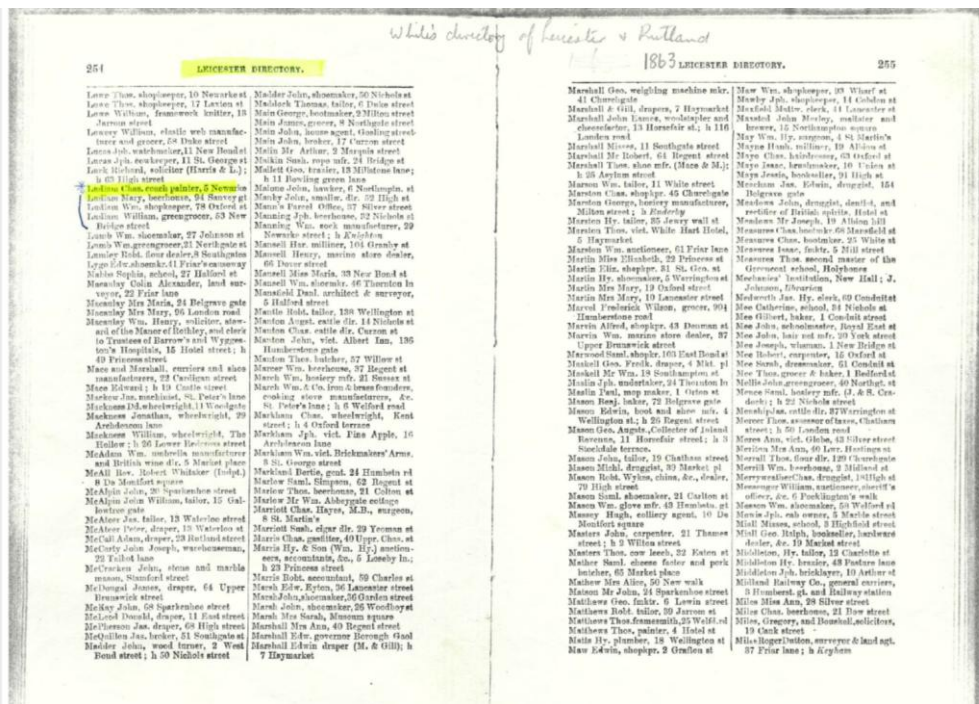

Ludlam Chas. coach painter, 5 Newarke

This is the copy of the pages referred to:

²¹ The census addresses are given, respectively, as Asylum Street, The Newarks (1841), 3 The Newarks (1851), 5 Newarke, St Mary (1861) and 5 Newarks, St Mary (1871), see the respective census records set out above.

²² Charles’ occupation is not given in the Family Search transcript of the 1841 census record at <https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:MQYP-F5G?lang=en>.

The directory is now available online, and page 254 is at
